Jean and Danny,

I spoke with Valois on Monday regarding the status of next steps for finalizing the Dewey-Burdock permit and EJ analysis. Valois shared the attached table of comments (over 1100 pgs!) which have been divided into 45 categories (see other attachment). Also relevant are the tribal consultation notes (Kim V. is working on those). Valois informed me that the target date for finalizing the permit is late August at the absolute latest (sooner, if possible) and, based on that, input from the EJ program would be needed by late June. The "ask", as I understand it, is to review relevant public comments (from an EJ perspective) and recommend any revisions to the draft permit documents that might be warranted. Of course, we'll need to confirm specifically what is being asked of the EJ program and by when with Valois and her management.

It seems to me that our first step is to determine roles for Jean and I and then identify which comments might be relevant from an EJ standpoint. Shall we discuss this during our Team meeting tomorrow (or after if we run out of time)?

Hi Corbin,

The attached document contains the public comments from both the 2017 and 2019 public comment periods categorized under general topics. The first 5 topics are related to Native American interests.
